

Letter of Recommendation for Christoph Brucksch

To whom it may concern:

As one of the CEOs of THOMAX Media GmbH & Co. KG and head of sales and business management, I have had the great pleasure of working with Christoph Brucksch who is employed by our company as the technical manager of our flagship inOсна.de, software and database engineer and consultant from October 2015 until May 2018. During that time, Christoph has worked under my supervision and was either working in our office, sharing the same open office space with me, or independently from his home office as agreed upon. His main responsibilities included requirements gathering and analysis, the development of complex web applications using a variety of web technologies and the creation and integration of our database schemes, but none of these roles adequately represent the role and the impact that Christoph has made on this company.

We initially hired Christoph as a part-time working student, but realized early that he is not only a talented software developer but also a great communicator and peoples manager. He got along very well with me and all his co-workers and has the ability to motivate people to push beyond their limits. Besides he is a good salesman and promoter and proved his talents on multiple public events and presentations. He has also been a valuable consultant in many strategic questions and he always been a great help in technical questions and tasks.

After half a year we therefore decided to promote Christoph with the technical management and redevelopment of our flagship inOсна.de. As such, he was the perfect merge point between developer, designer and economist and he has constantly been bringing his attention to every detail in any project he was working on. In April 2017 we successfully released inOсна.de and effectively prevailed against a competitor, who was hired by the city of Osnabrück to develop a similar product. With his commitment, his ability of understanding clients needs and his background knowledge in business processes, he was the perfect addition to our company and certainly one of the main factors that lead to our company's success.

However, Christoph told us about his ambition to pursue a career in the gaming industry after his graduation early on. Next to his studies and his job at our company, Christoph was working on private independent game-projects with our knowledge. Nevertheless, his work that he either accomplished through individual effort or in collaboration with others has always been of excellent quality.

Overall, Christoph is a very cooperative, talented, hard-working employee and we are deeply sorry that we have to let him go, yet we are excited about his future and we hope that we will be able to continue our work relationship to him. I strongly recommend Christoph for any mid-level development position and with the right guidance and training, I have no doubt Christoph could excel in an upper-level development position in a few years as well. He's simply that good. If you would like additional information about Christoph Brucksch, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,
